ABOUT THE JOURNAL

Health and Human Rights began publication in 1994 under the editorship of Jonathan Mann, who was succeeded in 1997 by Sofia Gruskin. Paul Farmer, co-founder of Partners In Health, assumed the editorship in 2007. After more than a decade as a leading forum of debate on global health and rights concerns, Health and Human Rights made a significant new transition to an online, open access publication with Volume 10, Issue Number 1, in the summer of 2008. The full text of Health and Human Rights is now freely available to anyone with internet access.

While continuing the journal’s print-only tradition of critical scholarship, Health and Human Rights now also provides an inclusive forum for action-oriented dialogue among human rights practitioners. The journal endeavors to increase access to human rights knowledge in the health field by linking an expanded community of readers and contributors.

Health and Human Rights includes two sections: “Critical Concepts” and “Health and Human Rights in Practice.” Critical Concepts focuses rigorous scholarly analysis on the conceptual foundations and challenges of rights discourse and action in relation to health. The Practice section is dedicated to empowering new voices from the field — highlighting the innovative work of groups and individuals in direct engagement with human rights struggles as they relate to health. Complementary and mutually reinforcing, these two sections seek to foster engaged scholarship and reflective activism. In doing so, they invite informed action by and with communities to realize the full spectrum of human rights.

PUBLICATION POLICY

Health and Human Rights welcomes unsolicited manuscripts at any time. Accepted contributions will be published in the journal’s open access electronic and print versions. Articles are invited for Critical Concepts (5,000–7,000 words) and for Health and Human Rights in Practice (500–7,000 words). Authors should send their manuscripts to the Editorial Office via email to hhrjournal@hsph.harvard.edu. Guidelines for authors can be found on the Health and Human Rights website (http://www.hhrjournal.org).

Views expressed in the journal are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of Health and Human Rights officers, editors, or other members.
