ABOUT THE JOURNAL
Health and Human Rights began publication in 1994 under the editorship of Jonathan Mann, who was succeeded in 1997 by Sofia Gruskin. Paul Farmer, co-founder of Partners In Health, assumed the editorship in 2007. After more than a decade as a leading forum of debate on global health and rights concerns, Health and Human Rights moved to an online, open access publication with Volume 10, Issue Number 1, in 2008. The full text of Health and Human Rights is now freely available to anyone with internet access.

Health and Human Rights maintains a tradition of critical scholarship and also provides an inclusive forum for action-oriented dialogue among human rights practitioners. The “Critical Concepts” section focuses rigorous scholarly analysis on the conceptual foundations and challenges of rights discourse and action in relation to health. The “Health and Human Rights in Practice” section is dedicated to empowering new voices from the field, highlighting innovative and direct engagement with human rights as they relate to health. Complementary and mutually reinforcing, these sections seek to foster engaged scholarship and reflective activism. They invite informed action by and with communities to realize the full spectrum of human rights.

PUBLICATION POLICY
Health and Human Rights welcomes unsolicited manuscripts. Articles are invited for two peer-reviewed sections, Critical Concepts (5,000–7,000 words) and Health and Human Rights in Practice (500–7,000 words). Book reviews and Letters to the Editor are also welcome. Please submit manuscripts by email to hhrjournal@hsph.harvard.edu. Author Guidelines are available on the Health and Human Rights website (http://www.hhrjournal.org). Views expressed in the journal are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Health and Human Rights publisher, editors, editorial board members, or other members.

COPYRIGHT POLICY
Health and Human Rights applies the Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial 3.0 Unported License to all articles published in the journal, with the philosophy that there should be no financial barriers to access information. The Attribution-Noncommercial license (http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc/3.0/) lets people freely copy, distribute, remix, and build upon contributors’ work, provided it is not used to make a profit and the original authors and Health and Human Rights are appropriately acknowledged. These conditions can be waived if the author, as copyright holder, grants potential users explicit permission. Authors who wish to include in their manuscript copyrighted material from other publications or organizations must obtain written permission from the copyright holder prior to publication in Health and Human Rights.
